President of Think Energy management to speak at two conferences this spring

Think Energy Management LLC announces its president Richard G. Lubinski has asked to speak on energy cost savings opportunities at two conferences this spring.

On March 16, Lubinski will be leading an energy panel discussion at the National Facilities Management & Technology Conference in Baltimore, Maryland. The topic will be "Taking Advantage of State & Federal Energy Management Programs."

The workshop will review the multitude of governmental energy efficiency resources to help commercial, industrial, residential and governmental organizations to reduce their utility expenses.

On April 17, Lubinski will present an energy workshop at the Ohio Charter Schools Association's Annual Conference in Columbus. The topic for this interactive workshop will be "Saving Money with Energy Management." This workshop will address the cost savings opportunities available to schools through Supply-Side and Demand-Side Energy Management.

Most school systems are challenged by rising utility costs and reductions in their income. There are 250 charter schools in Ohio which makes it the sixth largest charter school state in the U.S.
